

Vice Chairman of the Executive Committee Annette M. Pham, M.D., FACS

Dr. Annette M. Pham is a double board-certified otolaryngologist and facial plastic surgeon currently practicing as a partner physician at Metro ENT and Facial Plastic Surgery, a division of the Centers for Advanced ENT Care (CAENT), located in Rockville, MD. She attended Stanford University as an undergraduate, earning dual degrees in Biological Sciences and Economics. Dr. Pham graduated with her medical degree as a member of the prestigious Alpha Omega Alpha honor society from Rutgers New Jersey Medical School, formerly the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey. She then completed an internship and residency training in Otolaryngology - Head and Neck Surgery at the University of California, Davis in Sacramento. Dr. Pham then continued her training by completing one of the highly coveted fellowships in Facial Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery at the University of Miami.

Dr. Pham's commitment to serving as a physician leader is demonstrated in her role as managing partner in her division as well as one of the Vice Chairs of CAENT, the Mid-Atlantic's largest physician-owned ENT practice. She is also the current Medical Director of the Rockville Surgical Suites. She is an active participant in the medical community in Montgomery County, serving on the Board of the Montgomery County Medical Society since 2015 and co-chair of the Early Career Physician Committee. Dr. Pham is now serving as President of the Montgomery County Medical Society. She is also the current Treasurer/Secretary of the Washington Metropolitan Otolaryngology Society. She maintains her memberships as well at the national level including the American Academy of Facial Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery, the American Academy of Otolaryngology, the American Rhinologic Society, the American College of Surgeons, and the American Medical Association. In her spare time, she enjoys skiing, scuba diving, attending barre classes, cooking new recipes with her Instant Pot, and most definitely, spending time with her husband and 3 children.
